

B4 Challenges

many points don't apply to my eating habits and Germany for example violence, war and hunger

B5 Opinion on industrial farming

At first I can't build me directly an opinion because it's a really great topic, for which I would need more informations and impacts.

But I think that the industrial farming is a idea and sample for the future farming, but it have room for improvement and it would need time because it's a great change on the farming system.

Furthermore many farmer wouldn't have a chance to make money because the machines would take their work.

All in all I think it's a suggestion but I wouldn't choose the industrial way because it wouldn't be nature how the farming in my opinion should be. We could improve the actually farming in a different way. In addition industrial farming have too really bad impacts on the climate. So I would wait for a better idea or a improve version of the industrial farming.

B6 What can we do?

We could eat no or at least less meat as a consumer and could be careful and have an eye on the meat which we buy. We would protect so many animals which are really important for the planet. So we should eat no or less meat and should reduce our meat proportion. We could reach this goal if we would make us a nutritionplan, with at most meat two times in month.

As a citizen we could teach children food preparation, maybe even the biology teacher in the school that they have information about food and the production.

B10 Sustainable fast food?

I think healthy fast food sounds really weird but it's good that a restaurant opened which wants to be other than the other restaurants and wants to change how the Americans eat because Americans eat really unhealthy. Furthermore it's terrific that it opened where healthy eating options have so far been lacking and the restaurant will make good sales. In addition is it good to reintroduce nutritious foods. I believe that the restaurant will be respected because the offering prices are affordable and the food is not the same like other fast food restaurants. The meat which is mixed with grains and tofu is specially. I didn't knew what „aguas frescas“ is because it's from Spain. The music in the background (old R&B and hip hop) is in my opinion a good pick because R&B and hip hop are my favourite music genres. I'm amazed that one of the chef have goals with his restaurants and I think it's important to set goals and reach them. As well it's good that the chefs of the restaurant want to change something. I'm really a fan of people which don't want to be like the rest. I like their business plan and wish them good luck!

Choose B7

Explanation: All in all the poster means that I think it's time to stop the factory farming. The poster should express that it's bad and very selfish from us people that animals must suffer just because we like the meat and food for example eggs from animals. In the end of the poster is the statement stained from blood, because enough blood flowed.
