

INDUSTRY FRAMING

What is an industry farming?

Industrial agriculture produces cheap food. And has destroyed peasant agriculture to a certain extent in well-known countries like America. Poor countries have gotten into an unjust trading system. On top of that, quantities of animal waste are spreading, destroying water and soil, while nitrogen and the phosphate cycle on Earth are changing.

My Opinion about industry farming:

I think that the whole industry farming thing should stop. Many politicians say it's not possible to stop the famine, but I believe in it that it's definitely a way to do it. First, we could help other living beings not to die for example pigs, cows or chicken. Second, even if we don't think of it, we have to think about other people who live in poorer countries and don't have anything. for example, Africa. We could help about 821 Million people. And that's a huge number. And last but not least, we would save a lot more money instead of using it for the industry farming.